Respectfully yours,

THE SILVER FIGHT.

Hoar and Vest Leave the Gold Men.

Washington, August 14.—Senator Vest left the administration to-day and is now a hostile Injun. In a three hours' speech he put both the President and the Secretary on the coals and roasted them to a turn and gave general notice that he would pitch his tent in the silver camp hereafter and hunt with the silver beavers.

Further he said he had left the President's retinue because no silver bill would ever receive the chief executive's signature.

This was a bold assertion and it fairly staggered the goldbugs, who had been deluding themselves with the idea that they could deceive the silver men into repealing the Sherman act, unconditionally, on the promise that they would support some silver measure at a ratio higher than 16 to 1. They knew that they could not carry out their promise and the gold standard would be safe, because the President would veto any silver-coinage law they might enact. They were unmasked and with their features exposed to the full glare of the light they squinted and squirmed uncomfortably.

More defections are likely to follow, and it is understood that there is great disappointment among the friends of the yellow metal because Senator White of California is not in favor of unconditional repeal.

In the House the silver advocates are rapidly picking up courage. They now believe that the President will be unsuccessful in his barefaced effort to coerce that body into voting as he directs. There are signs that many members from the South have concluded that it is better to come back to Congress and the gay life in Washington than to submit to the decree from the White House. Their friends at home have cautioned them that to vote for gold and New England money-lenders means for them political death, and they have taken the hint.

The most surprising piece of information emanating from the House to-day is that when the vote is taken on one of the substitutes providing for coinage at a ratio yet to be decided upon there will be a great defection in the gold ranks, led by Reed, who of course legislates on money matters according to the New England idea.

Mr. Bartine is now here and is accomplishing a world of good quietly among his former colleagues. He has acquainted himself thoroughly with the situation, owing to fine opportunities for observation, he being accorded the privilege of the floor, and his opinions, therefore, are valuable. In conversation he said among other things: I believe that the enactment of a free-coinage law upon any ratio is in the highest degree impossible. I think that free coinage at 16 to 1 cannot possibly be carried through the present House.

The moment a different ratio is proposed there is a possibility of the silver men breaking ranks.

The danger lies in our not being able to get the entire strength of the silver vote on any one proposition. In the Senate, upon a direct vote, I think repeal would also carry by a narrow margin, but the silver men are in a position to fight interminably and they show every disposition to do so. I think the final outcome will either be a compromise favorable to silver or the maintenance of the existing law.

The silver men have had the best of it so far, and the result may be different from what I anticipate."

It is now said that Senator Hoar is opposed to the unconditional repeal of the Sherman act.

A Recognition of Merit.

COAST NEWS.

The yard at Mare Island is gradually accumulating material for a fine shipbuilding plant.

A forger who gave the name of S. H. Wilson, has been working the business men of Stockton for small sums.

The big engine of the Southern Pacific that was run off the Solona into the ferry slip at Port Costa was raised Monday.

Chin Sam, the smuggling Chinese cook on the steamer Kingston, at Port Townsend, offered $1,000 to the customs officers to release him.

Hop-pickers are flopping to the yards in Sacramento county. A number of unemployed printers in Sacramento went to the fields Sunday to seek work.

Farmers living on the plains, especially west of Rosedale, says the Kern County Echo, report a great mortality among the jack-rabbits. These pests seem to be dying off by thousands.

The five-year-old son of N. D. Lewis fell into a 40-foot well at Lompoc one day last week and broke his shoulder blade by striking a bucket. He got into the bucket without aid and was hauled up by his mother, no men being within call.

Much excitement exists at Hepner, Or., over the maltreatment of Miss Lizzie Green by Melville Dustin. The families are of considerable local prominence, and threats of lynching Dustin, who is in jail, are earnestly made by the citizens.

There was a collision at the Cascades in the snowsheds yesterday. An extra going east was run into by a work train. Engineer Isvard had his knee badly injured and brakemen Fields had his foot mashed considerably. Both engines were badly damaged.

A man named C. H. Kelsey at Stockton took off his coat and vest, and, tying a large basalt block to his neck, jumped into the slough. His body was recovered. The man was sixty-five years old and about six feet high. A sister, Mrs. Hattie K. Lawrence, lives in San Francisco.

Some time ago Robert James was severely bitten by a stallion at San Bernardino. A few days ago he attempted to get out of bed and move about some. Since then the wounds have become inflamed and a high fever has set in. His attending physician now thinks there is great danger of blood-poisoning.

Our Empire Letter.

Empire, Aug. 16, 1893.

There is about half a mile of wood jam in the river yet. The work of taking it out of the water goes along with the precision of clock work. The wood yard at the Morgan is full. There were about 4,000 cords of this years drive taken out there. There will be about 500 cords taken out at the Brunswick. The balance of the drive will be piled at Empire. There is more cord wood piled up between the rail road track and the river than there has been for twenty years. The water has gone down pretty fast in the last week. Mr. Longabaugh has considerable trouble in keeping the rear down on the jam. He has a small army of stalwart river drivers to work on the rear.

Jim Wiggins has bought a new piano and the Glee Club are practicing on "Maher's Dream," which will be sung for the entertainment of those who attend the ball next Friday night. Otto Werner has cut his second crop of alfalfa, which is extra good. Walter Cook and Mrs. N. Ambrose left here last Saturday for Chicago. Mr. Cook goes to see the Fair and Mrs. Ambrose intends to visit relatives in different parts of the State of Illinois. She will be gone for about four months. Miss Jennie May and Frank May have about recovered from a severe attack of rheumatism.

This end of the county don't seem to do much for the Bartine fund though everybody prates silver and curses John Sherman and Grover Cleveland; but when they are called on to contribute to help the cause they are not in it. "Put up or shut up, your yap will do no good; if you contribute enough to keep Bartine at Washington till the battle is won or lost, then you will prove your sincerity," I say to them.

NEIL MAHER.

Ollie Tennant is now the mixologist at the Moarch.
